Moslems who hold con servative views look on their presence with disgust, and that the Tabah incident has left a certain bitterness behind it among certain classes cannot be denied. The presence of European ladies in a centre of Moslem Con servatism can only provoke ill-feeling which may vent itself in insulting language or rude conduct towards those who have unwittingly offended against Moslem ideas. Ordinarily the visits of Europeans of both sexes are tolerated -though the visitors are not welcomed with eathusiasm -but at present they are regarded by not a few of the inmates, especially the rough class of "students," who regard the University as an idlers' club, as an insult—the wish being no doubt father to the thought At the same time, when we hear that a teacher was recently 'ill-advised enough to take the pupils of a German girls' school to visit the University we cannot refrain from expressing our amazement at the utter tactlessness of which educated Europeans can be capable.

been the petty persecution, in some cases the actual ill-treatment, meted out to the students who were suspected of sympathising with Great Britain during the recent crisis. We hear on good authority that Indian Moslems have been compelled to leave Al Azhar owing to the misconduct of their fellow-students, notably of the Egyptians, whose sympathy with the Ottoman Empire appears to have effaced the tolerance which Mustapha Pacha Kamel declares to be one of the chief virtues of the Moslem. We are glad to believe that the unruly students of Al Azhar do not represent the majority of Egyptians, and we hope that our "Nationalist" confrères will point out to these young hotheads whose courses in law and divinity appear to have inspired them only with the "olium theologicum," that good manners and tolerance towards persons who hold different opinions befit scholars and would-be divines better than vulgar rudeness and brutal intolerance. The continuance of such incidents may compel the Government, however reluctant it may be to interfere with the internal organisation of a venerable and famous University, to take steps that will render the repetition of such misconduct impossible.

recently occurred in the outflow of Britons seeking their fortunes oversea. Up to last year, patriotism had to deplore that such a large Republic. But the tide has lately changed its copious supply.

As compared with 1904, a better living than they could secure at home showed an increase of nearly 11,000, whereas 24,000 fewer British settlers established themselves in the United States. It is believed, too. that many of the latter subsequently crossed the frontier into British North America, in company with thousands of American colonists. The same tendency, but to a much less degree, operated to increase the populations of Australia and New Zealand, while now that their statesmen are striving to attract emigrants instead of repelling them, the tide should set still more strongly towards the lands of the Southern Cross. South Africa is the one exception to the increase of British immigration, but that is easily accounted for; there was such a rush thither after the Boer war, that the local labour market has not yet assimilated the too Crookshank Pachs, local chairman, and Mr. Beckett, general manager of the Corporation of Western Egypt, returned yesterday to Cairo, after a thorough examination of the company's railway from Khargeh Junction, a little north of Farshout, to the Oasis, of which nearly 50 kilometres are completed. The telephone from the Nile Valley to the Khargeh Oasis is also completed as far as railhead. The progress of the railway is very satisfactory and the Corporation engineers hope to have another 50 kilometres in running order by the month of September.

An Empire day Cateohism

An "Empire Day Catschism," for the use o British subjects, has been drawn up by the Earl of Meath in connection with the growing movement which he founded. In the form of a six page pamphlet, it contains a number of questions and answers on the extent and responsibilities of Empire, on which every citizen might be expected to be informed, but which in reality, probably few fully appreciate. It is a welcome reminder of the world-wide dominion for which the British race has made itself responsible. The watchwords of the Empire Day movement are "Responsibility, Daty, Self-sacrifice," and its motto, "One King, one Flag, one Fleet, one Empire."

Presentation at British Consulate.

A very pleasant and quiet ceremony was that which took place yesterday afternoon, when the staff of the British Consulate met together in the room of Mr. E. B. Gould, H.B.M.'s Consul-General, and presented Mr. W. Chevalier, one of their number, with a beautiful silver cup. Mr. Chevalier has just retired from work after a long period of 43 years' service in the Consulate, and the staff desired to recognise the event, and also Mr. Chevalier's unfailing courtesy. Mr. Gould presided, and in a few well-chosen words made the presentation, expressing the regret he felt at losing the services of an "old friend" and the hope that he would be long spared to enjoy a happy and well-earned retirement.

THE KHEDIVE.

DELIVERS SPEECH TO THE ULEMA.

Before his departure for Constantinople yesterday the Khedive received the Ministers and Sir Vincent Corbett. At 3.30 p.m. he put out in a launch, accompanied by the Ministers, the Austro-Hungarian Diplomatic Agent, and the Financial Adviser, for the Austrian Lloyd steamer Africa, which was moored seme 300 yards from Ras el Tin.

Admiral Sir Massie Blomfield, the Governo of Alexandria, Major Hopkinson, and Mr. H. von Pitner, agent of the Austrian Lloyd S.S. Co., received the Khedive on his arrival. Mr. von Pitner showed his Highness over the ship and was cordially thanked for his success in securing so comfortable a vessel for the voyage to Constantinople.

After conversing for some time with those present the Khedive bade farewell and at 4.15 p.m. the steamer put out to sea.

The Khedive, yesterday morning, summone a number of Ulema to Ras-el-Tin Palace and addressed them, stating that the Ulema should join in aiming at virtuous objects, and should advise Moslems to follow their example, showing the nation the value of religious observances, and adopting the best methods for spreading knowledge of the law and science among the people. The Ulema of Egypt, said his Highness, must be the first of all the Mohamedan religious leaders throughout the world, the more so since Egypt is situated in the centre of the Moslem world and its people are the most conversant with the Arabic tongue.

His Highness referred to the differences which had recently occurred among the Ulema of Alexandria, pointing out that they led to many prejudicial results, some of which his Highness mentioned. In adddition to religious instruction, continued the Khedive, it was necessary to enlighten the soul of the student and strengthen the will, and this training of the character would improve the morality and the ability of the nation.

His Highness promised to do his best to support the Ulema financially.

After his speech the Khedive conferred the Order of the Medjidieh of the 2nd class on Sheikh Mohamed Shaker, president of the Ulema Board of Alexandria, in recognition of his valuable services, and the decoration was handed to the Sheikh in the presence of the other Ulema.

A rumour having been circulated in Berlin that Dr. Von Bergmann's visit to Constantinople was not to examine the Sultan's daughter, but to perform an operation on the Sultan himself, a "Tribune" correspondent saw his Excellency's son, who is also a doctor. He stated that there was absolutely no truth in the rumour, and that his father had gone to Constantinople with a private assistant to operate for appendicitis on the sixteen-yearold daughter of the Sultan by his favourite and principal wife.

INTERNATIONAL ASSEMBLY.

LORD CROMER'S SCHEME.

HOW IT HAS BEEN RECEIVED.

A rumour has been afloat to the effect that wing to the opposition with which Lord Cromer's scheme has met for the creation of an International Assembly in Cairo, his lordship has decided not to pursue his idea any further.

We are in a position to state that this rumour s absolutely unfounded. The preliminary stage of the career of Lord Cromer's project, namely, that connected with the ascertaining of the feeling entertained towards it by the different European communities in Egypt, has exceeded in results his lordship's most sanguine expectations, and constitutes, the greatest encourage ment to proceed with it.

No expression of opinion from the Governments concerned one way or another has reached his lordship, who has not sought it yet, but it is reasonable to suppose that they will allow themselves to be largely influenced by the body of their nationals on the spot who, as we have said, have received Lord Cromer's idea very favourably Therefore the prospects of an International Assembly in Egypt coming into existence are, judging by the present state of things, very fair.

Reuter's Agency states that the Emir of Gando, an important centre to the south of Sokoto, who was proved to have promised assistance to the rebels in the recent Sokoto rising, and whose attitude was altogether unsatisfactory, has been deposed by the High Commissioner, and deported with certain members of his household to Lokoja. A new Emir has been appointed in his stead. It is under contemplation to remove the ex-Emirs of Kanc and Zaria to Burutu. There are rumours of unrest in the Province of Bauchi, and also of a Senussi gathering to the north of Lake Chad. A fort is being built at Burmi, near which place, if the Senussi movement comes to anything, trouble may be expected to arise.

COMMISSION MUNICIPALE

La Commission Municipale s'est réunie le 6 juin 1906 à 4 h. p. m. au palais municipal sous la présidence de M. le Dr. Schiess Pacha.

Communication est de nnés d'une lettre du 27 mai 1906 de S. E. le Ministre de l'Intérieur demandant de tenir en suspens la vente de la parcelle Nº 27 des terrains des quais, cette parcelle appartenant pre que entièrement au Gouvernement et ne faisant pas partie des terrains gagnés sur la mer.
L'Administrateur dit qu'à la suite de cette ettre des avis rectificatifs ont été publiés dans es journaux.

Après un échange d'idées, la Commission considérant que catte parcelle fait partie d'un ensemble de lots et que l'éventualité d'une copropriété de l'Etat ne saurait être un obstacle à la vente, la Municipalité et l'Etat pouvant s'entendre ultérieurement sur l'attribution du produit de la vente, décide de demander au Gouvernement de permettre la mise en vente de la parcelle en question, en même temps que celles pour lesquelles des avis ont été déjà publiés.

Communication est également donnée d'une lettre du 2 juin 1906 de S.E. le Ministre de l'Intérieur approuvant les divers crédits votés par la Commission dans sa séance du 23 mai 1906.

A ce sujet le Ministre estime que ceux de ces crédits qui ont été prélevés sur le produit des ventes de terrains ne devront être emplo-yés qu'au fur et à mesure que ces ventes auront été effectuées et que le prix en aura été versé à la caisse municipale. Le produit de ces ventes de même que les dépenses auxquelles cette ressource est affectée devront figurer respectivement au crédit et au débit du budget extraordinaire. La Commission en prend note:

Lecture est donnée d'une lettre du 2 juin 1906 de S. E. le Ministre de l'Intérieur approuvant les décisions prises par la Commission tendant à prélever sur le fonds de l'emprunt la somme de L.E. 7,400 montant des expropriations imputées sur le budget extraordinaire d'après une précédente décision et à majorer de L.E. 22 le crédit de L.E. 185 précédemment voté pour l'aménagement des kiosques du service des Recettes.

Mention en faite de l'envoi aux membres du procès verbal de la séance des Comités d'hygiène et des travaux publics réunis au sujet de la question d'installation d'un destructeur pour les immondices de la ville.

Les deux Comités ont conclu à l'opportunité de l'adoption du système de destructeur employé au Caire et qui paratt avoir de bons résultats dans cette ville. Le destructeur à installer devrait avoir 6 cellules, sauf à en augmenter plus tard le nombre au fur et à mesure des nécessités. Le coût de première installation serait d'environ 10500 L.E. En ce qui concerne l'emplacement, les Comités préfèrent le fixer sur l'autre rive du canal Mahmoudieh à proximité du pont projeté du côté de Karmous. Les Comités pensent enfin que étant donné le caractère aléatoire des bénéfices résultant du destructeur, il ne saurait être question de le confier à l'entreprise privée. Ils recommandent enfin que des études mûries soient entreprises tant au point de vue des frais d'installation que d'entretien annuels, et que le service mette à l'étude la question des expropriations à faire pour l'acquisition des terrains nécessaires non seulement pour le destructeur mais également pour le transfert éventuel des écuries municipales et du dépôt de la voirie dans une même zone, le terrain à réserver à cet effet devant être assez vaste pour servir à la construction d'habitations pour les ouvriers de la Municipalité.

Après an échange d'idées, la Commission adopte les conclusions des Comités et décide de procéder aux études définitives sur les bases noncées dans ces conclusions, Vu le départ en congé de quelques membres de la Délégation, il est procédé a l'élection de 3 membres provisoires pour ce collège. MM. Ralli, Barbaza et Gherianni Bey sont nommés au scrutin secret. M. Rieti est nommé au scrutin secret, membre suppléant provisoire au Conseil du Tanzim durant l'absence en congé de M. Stross.

DELEGATION MUNICIPALE

(Communication Officielle)

La Délégation Municipale s'est réunie le 5 juin 1906 à 5 h. p.m. sous la présidence de Présents : MM. Ahmed Pacha Jehia, Scliman bey Abani, Dr. G. Valensin, G. Zervudachi, membre, W. P. Chataway, administrateur. J. Sedky bey recrétaire.

La Municipalité ayant demandé au Syndicat des Sociétés d'Assurances s'il était disposé de prendre à sa charge une légère dépense de L.E. 300 pour l'achat d'extincteurs, destinés à porter des secours immédiate, en attendant le fonctionnement des pompes, le Syudicat informe qu'il regrette de ne ponvoir intervenir dans ces frais. La Délégation décide de répondre qu'elle renonce dans ces conditions à l'achat de ces extincteurs dont l'emploi aurait été plus particulièrement profitable aux dites Sociátés.

La Délégation sur rapport du Comité spécial, arrête le programme des ruelles à paver cette année avec les vieilles dalles existant au dénôt. Elle demandera à la Commission l'ouverture des crédits supplémentaires suivants : 1. L.E. 60, à prélever sur le budget extraordinaire pour la confection de plaques pour les charrettes à main et les bicyclettes. 2. L.E. 418 à prélever sur la réserve du budget ordinaire pour imprimés et fournitures de bureau.

3. L E. 300 à prélever sur la même réserve pour secours aux employés licenciés pour maladie ou aux familles d'employés décédés.

Se réferant à une demande du Gouvernorat la Délégation considère qu'il appartient à la police de prendre les dispositions voulues pour assurer le sauvetage des personnes en danger de se noyer, les dispositions intéressant surtout la sécurité publique

La Municipalité ne saurait donc intervenir dans la question qu'au point de vue du principe d'une subvention pour l'achat des engins de sauvetage, subvention qu'il appartiendra à la Commission de fixer.

La Délégation adjuge à M. Moscatelli au prix de L.E. 115 les travaux de canalisation depuis le Rond Point jusqu'à la prison de Hadra.

Elle prend note de diverses lettres du Ministère de l'Intérieur approuvant les crédits votés par la Commission dans sa séance du 23 mai, ainsi que le prélèvement sur l'emprunt des dépenses d'expropriation.

La Délégation prend acte d'une lettre de la Compagnie des Téléphones informant qu'elle mettra sous peu à la disposition du public des formules imprimées pour les réclamations.

Elle décide de consacrer L.E. 200 à la répa ration de l'asphaltage de la rue Abdel Moneim ainsi que le macadamisage des rue Cogniard et Abon Nawatir à Ramleh

Adoptant une proposition du service technique, la Délégation décide d'exécuter les travaux de terrassement à entreprendre sur la route de trente mètres depuis la route de Chathy jusqu'à la tranchée de l'Ibrahimieh sur toute la largeur de la route au lieu de les faire uniquement sur la largeur des deux voies de tramways, comme il avait été précédemment

Elle proposera à la Commission d'accorder le supplément de crédit nécessaire à ce travail, sur le budget extraordinaire.

La séance est levée à 7h. 1/2 p.m.

La moitié de ces actions, émises à 150 drachmes, serait utilisée pour l'absorption de la Banque de Crédit Industriel de Grèce, après estimation de son actif, majoré de 500,000 drachmes. En d'antres termes, le capital nominal de la Banque de Cré lit Industriel, qui est de 10,000,000, serait pris par la Banque d'Athènes pour 10,500,000 drach.

Ces 100,000 actions seraient données aux ctionnaires de la Banque de Crédit à raison enchères publiques des lots ci après : de 2 actions nouvelles de 150 drachmes de la Banque d'Athènes pour trois actions de la Banque de Crédit de 100 drachmes chacune.

One of the most interesting chapters in Professor Breasted's book is that entitled 'The Religious Revolution of Ikhnaton," in which the progress of religious thought in Egypt is traced and some very interesting comparisons are made with Hebrew ideas. The chapter opens as follows:

"No nation ever stood in direr need of a strong and practical ruler than did Egypt at the death of Amenhotep III. Yet she chanced to be ruled at this fatal crisis by a young dreamer, who, in spite of unprece-dented greatness in the world of ideas, was not fitted to cope with a situation demanding an aggressive man of affairs and a skilled military leader, in fine such a man as Thutmose III. Amenhotep IV., the young and inexperience 1 son of Amenhotep III., and the Queen Tiy, was indeed strong and fearless in certain directions, but he failed ut'erly to understand the practical needs of his empire.

"He had inherited a difficult situation. The conflict of new forces with tradition was, as we have seen, already felt by his father. The task before him was such manipulation of these conflicting force; as might eventually give reasonable play to the new and modern tendency, but at the same time to conserve enough of the old to prevent a catastrophe. It was a problem of practical statesmanship, but Amenhotep IV. saw it chiefly in its ideal aspects. His mother, Ty, and his queen Nofretete, perhaps a woman of Asiatic birth, and a favourite priest, Eye, the husband of his childhood nurse, formed his immediate circle. The first two probably exercised s powerful influence over him, and were given a prominent share in the government, at least as far as its public manifestations were con cerned, for in a manner quite surpassing his father's similar tendency, he constantly appear ed in public with both his mother and his wife. The loftyand impractical aims which he had in view must have found a ready response in these his two most influential councillors Thue, while Egypt was in some need of a vigorous and skilled ad ninistrator, young King was in close counsel with a priest and two perhaps gifted women, who, however able, were not of the fibre to show the new Pharaoh what the empire really demanded. Instead of gathering the army so sadly needed in the Naharin, Amenhotep IV. immersed himself heart and soul in thought of the time, and the philosophizing theology of the priests was of more importance to him than all the provinces of Asia. In such contemplations he gradually developed ideals and purposes which make him the most remarkable of all the Pharaohs and the first individual in human history.

'The profound influence of Egypt's imperial of life, to the manners and oustoms of the people, to the rich and prolific art, pregnant with new possibilities of beauty, but had extended likewise to the thought of the age. Such thought was chiefly theological and we must divert it of all the ideas which are connoted by the modern term 'the thought of the Even before the conquests in Asia the priests had made great progress in the interpretation of the gods and they had now reached a stage in which, like the later Greeks, they were importing semi-philosophical significance into the myths such as these had of course not originally possessed."

How far the author is justified in saying that this significance was imported by priests may be questioned. It is now a well-recognised and established fact that there is a deep meaning in these ancient myths which have meaning in these ancient myths which have survived from time immemorial and appear often as Bible narratives in the sacred writings of various religious sects.— Hebrew included. We need not instance these; they are too well-known to the Biblical student to require recapitulation. A great advance in thought had been reached when, as the author says, "the Egyptian had gained the idea of a single controlling intelligence behind and above all sentient beings, including the gods. The efficient force by which this intelligence The efficient force by which this intelligence put his designs into execution was his spoken "word," and this primitive "logos" is undoubtedly the insipient germ of the later logos decrine which found its origin in Egypt.

In the times to come when research shall have completed the revelations of the past, now only as it were in their infancy, ancient Egypt bids fair to stand foremost as the Egypt bids tair to stand foremost as the country where religious conceptions of the highest inspiration had their origin.

We have only space to notice the similitude of thought in two poems entitled "Praise of Aton by King Ikhnaton and Queen Neferneficial". and the 104th Psalm of the Hebrews

These are given in parallel passages in the book with striking effect, thus:—

PRALM 104

O lord, how manifold are thy works!

In wisdom hast thou made them all; The earth is full of thy creatures.

HYMN TO ATON. How manifold are all thy works!
They are hidden from

O thousole god, whose power no other pos-

I'hou didst create the earth according to thy

The above is but one illustration out of many; and we way mention, too, that the Messianic idea is introduced in such a manner as to lead the author to say 'we cannot resist the conclusion that it furnished the Hebrew prophets with the form; and to a surprising extent also with the content of Massianio prophecy. It remained for the Hebrew to give this old form a higher ethical and religious significance."

We hope that Dr. Breasted's work will be extensively read and quoted, in view of the valuable information it gives respecting this worderful hand of Empt. worderful land of Egypt.

NAVAL PUNISHMENTS.

Now that the use of the "cat" has been suspended in the Navy one of the most ancient punishments meted out to unruly seamen has passed into the list of things that have been. In the earlier days of the history of the Navy some trivial offences were brutal in the extreme, and they were certainly not all recognized by the "Black Book of the Admiralty." This historical book was popularly. but erroneously, supposed to be a register of the delinquencies of Naval officers set down with more or less accuracy by an Admiralty clerk. As a matter of fact, it was a code of maritime laws and customs, introduced from the laws of Oléron by Richard I. It was lost in the early part of the nineteenth century, and a fresh code compiled with much labour from various manuscripts in the British Museum. The laws of O'éron provided, among other punishments, one that later became keelhauling. The mariner was forbidden to remove his clothes, except when in a port for wintering, and the penalty for disobedience was that for each offence he was to be plunged into the sea from the vardarm three times, and after the third offence he was to forfeit his pay and any share he had in the freight of the ship.

In a volume published in 1685 we get further information on the subject of punish ments. It appears to have been the duty of the boatswain "to see all offenders punctually punished, either at the capstan by the bilboe or with ducking at the main-yard-arm. Punishment at the capstan consisted in lashing the offender to one of the bars with his arms extended and a basket of bullets sna pended round his neck. Ducking at the main yard arm is self-explanatory, but the author dds: "If the offence be foul, he is also drawn under the very keel of the ship, which they term keel-raking, and being thus under water Great Piece is given fire unto, right ove his Head, as well to astonish him with the thunder thereof, which proveth most offensive to him, as to give warning to all others to look out and beware." Petty pilferings and "knaveries" of the ships' boys were punished with the rod, usually on a Monday morning. The Calender of Domestic State Papers in the time of Charles II. records the punish ment awarded to Robert Johnes, boatswain of the "Francis," for embezzling stores. He was ordered to be rowed from Chatham Dockyard to one of His Majesty's ships "with the usual ceremony of drum-beating at the head of the boat, his crime written in capital letters and fixed on his head, breast, and of gold the total reserve shows a loss of £11,000 back; to stand one hour on the gunwale of the ship with a rope from the yardarm round his neck, and then to have fifteen strokes on his naked back; to have the like punishment at Woolwich and Deptford; position had not been limited to the externals dismissed his ship, and rendered incapable of ever bearing any office in any of His in the immediate future, a slight relaxation is Majesty's ships."

It is small wonder that Monson, Boteler nd other writers inveighed against the cruelty of these punishments. But their tirades had no effect. In 1695, Admiral the Earl of Lindsay issued a code of instructions, in which the summary punishments include ducking, fasting, keelhauling, flogging at the capstan, hanging weights on offenders "till their heart or back be ready to break," or to "gagg or scrape their tongues for blast hemy or swearing." A century later these punishments were still in use, and others, such as stopping grog, had been added. One punishment that was most dreaded was ducking across a crowbar. The offender was tied to a crowbar, which was nicknamed "the chair." This was suspended from the yardarm by a rope, and the man let down into the water. The weight of the bar naturally prevented him from being able to float as he could when ducked under ordinary circumstances, and the ducking was, therefore, more thorough and much more often fatal. But flogging was the staple punishment. Even allowing for the exaggeration of such writers as Jack Nastyface, Ned Ward, and others of their type, we can be quite sure that the flogging carried on by many of the captains in the eighteenth century was unnecessarily brutal. A ruffian is quoted by Mr. Mansfield in "Sea Life in Nelson's Time" as having once described flogging as "Nothing but an 'O' and a few 'Oh! my God's!' and then you can put on your shirt." There was was also the punishment of flogging through the fleet, which was much more severe than an ordinary flogging, and was only given for the offences of striking an admiral, a commodore, or other officer of high rank, or for attempting to escape mstances which aggravated the offence.

Modern punishments are more lenient, though not, we may be sure, less efficacious. Cells ie, in fact, the usual punishment for most offences. There is a story told of a ship's corporal who was fond of using long words, and once found a man on the lower deck scouring and polishing one of the steel stanchions in quite a leisurely manner. "Now then," cried the corporal. "Yon're not polishing that stanchion with sufficient alacrity." "Course I ain't," replied the blusjacket, who was vary fond of trying to score off his superiors, "I'm a cleaning it with brick and oi!." His little joke cost him ten days' cella, The punishment of mast heading is much less resorted to rowadays. On a cold winter's night it was, perhaps, rather a cruel trial to send a young boy on to the foretopsail yard, but in the summer the delirquent could often get a acting in sympathy with the general idleness, very pleasant hour's sleep comfortably seated the movements have not been near so satisfacbetween the tie blocks. There was a certain tory as the outlook justified. Districts are 1 captain, who nows holds flag rank, who will probably remember to this day the unruly set firm, but the deferred stock; of the Southern of midshipmen he had in one of his shipp, lines have been offered. whom he succeeded in masth adding in spite of Americans.

the seizings of the shrond; then when the number had been duly reported he was sent to the spanker gaff end; then over the bows to the dolphin striker, and so on. By the end of the cruise the occupants of the gun room had been reduced to something like subjection. Another ingenious punishment was invented by a first lieutenant for dealing with men who upset paint, or otherwise made dirty marks on the deck. They were set to scrub the spot every day for a week with their day's portion of grog, and though the mark had disappeared long before they had done the second scrub, they were kept at it by the corporal of the watch amid the jears of their messmates, which acted, perhaps, as a more powerful deterrent than the loss of the grog.

MONEY AND SHARE MARKET.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

London, June 1. The Money Market.

Speculation is still rife in the City as to the robable outcome of the interest shown by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the question of our Gold Reserve. That the time is ripe for ction is undoubted, also that the fundamental basis of any action must be "more gold." The City's experiences during the last six months have clearly demonstrated the absurdity of this market -- the only free market for goldendeavouring to struggle along with a reserve totally inadequate to its needs. Can it be wondered at, that with a Reserve of about half that of Germany and a third of that of France, we should be subject to violent disturbance on the withdrawal of a few millions? Only three days ago the market took alarm on the rumour of the withdrawal of two hundred thousand pounds, and only calmed down on hearing that the report was unfounded. This shows the state of tension which at present exists, and credit dealers most natu ally mark their rates in accordance therewith Loans to the Stock Exchange over the present account commanded 4 \frac{3}{4} to 5 %, weekly loans which throughout the week have stood at about 3½% still stand at 3 to 3½% and call noney is to-day quoted 3 to 3 1 %.

Discount rates have shown a marked stoadiness for several days, "short tenors" are not much in demand, the rate for 60-day bills being 3 1 %, whilst 3 months bills can be done at 3 \( \frac{3}{8} \) % and 6 months at 3 \( \frac{1}{4} \) %.

The Bank Return exhibits very little change ince last week; notwithstanding the influx owing to an increase in the active circulation and the market resources have gained about half a million as shown by the increase in Other Deposits. The situation is not all that could be desired, but it is certainly improving and although we cannot look for any great ease more than probable.

The Stock Markets.

A multiplicity of events have engaged the attention of members of the Stock Exchange this week. In the first place, the monthly settlements commenced on Monday, though business during the account had been on a limited scale, the carry-over absorbed the greater part of the time. On Wednesday there were two important events, to wit the Derby, humorously described by Mr. Bottomley as a "great national festival," and the Feast of Pentecost. The Derby took many mem bers to Epsom Downs, while the Jewish festival was responsible for the absence from the house of others who are connected with the Hebrew Faith.

These distractions, aided to the near approach of the holidays—the Stock Exchange loses from to-night, -and the Decoration Day holiday in New York, have tended to keep dealings on a very low level. The tone of the markets has been cheerful notwithstanding, and it is confidently expected that after the holiday is out of the way we shall see a revival of business.

One fact which added to this feeling of chearfulness was the general easing of contango rates, this being received with much relief, as higher charges were anticipated. Most of the Egyptian shares were arranged on the basis of 6 to 8%.

There is little of interest to report respecting the movements of stock markets. Gilt-edged securities have been the most satisfactory N. Nile Valley ... section, Consols closing appreciably higher on the week. The Consol account was arranged at from 34 to 4%, a shade easier than last time. Russians have been in a miserable condition, but have now recovered somewhat, thanks to assistance from the Continent.

Consols

Continued fears of trouble between the Russian Government and the new Parliament were the cause of the extreme weakness of the bonds of that country in the week, the Fours dropping at one time as low as 801. A firmer tendency on the Paris Bourse was subsequently favourable to these bonds, which close better at 82. The new Japanese loans are firm, but there is little alteration in prices to note. The closing quotation for the Four-per-cents is 92.7/8. Egyptian Unified have advanced ‡.
